PUBLICATIONS

PhD dissertation

(2003) Enigmatic power? Relational Power Analysis and Statecraft in Japan’s China-policy, Stockholm Studies in Politics 93. Ph.D. Dissertation. Stockholm University: Department of Political Science.
(Reviewed by Lars Vargö in Orientaliska Studier No. 117, 2005)

Peer-reviewed monograph

(hb in 2005, pb in 2007) Japan’s China Policy: A Relational Power Analysis, London and New York: Routledge.

(Reviews: “The book provides some compelling new arguments debunking any residual elements of the myth of Japan’s enigmatic power. The book should be of interest to academics, students, and policymakers and deserves to be read widely.” – Caroline Rose, Asian Affairs, vol. 38, no. 1, 2007. “Japan’s China Policy: A Relational Power Analysis is a significant addition to the field of Japanese foreign policy.” – Quansheng Zhao, Japanese Journal of Political Science, vol. 7, no. 2, 2006. “Overall, this is an important book. It should be of interest ... to students of political power everywhere.” – David A. Baldwin, Pacific Affairs, vol. 78, no. 3, 2005. “This book is notable in that such specific attention is paid to Japan’s China policy from an IR perspective.” – Joseph O’Mahoney, Japan Forum, vol. 18, no. 2, 2006. Japan’s China Policy “demonstrate[s] in admirable scholarly detail how officials in Tokyo have been able to get their own way with Beijing.” – Henry Hilton, Japan Today, May 19, 2005. Also reviewed in German by Dirk Nabers in Internationale Politik December 2005)

(Reviews: “North Korea Policy provides a worthwhile contribution to the literature on both the issue of North Korea in East Asian international relations and on Japan's role in this issue. It brings together a wide range of perspectives and constructs an original approach to the topic.” – H.D.P. Envall, Electronic Journal of Contemporary Japanese Studies, 14 January 2008. “This book will be of special interest to scholars and policy makers interested in Northeast Asian relations and foreign policy. Both will benefit from a better understanding of the relatively understudied issue of Japan's influence on other powers' foreign policy.” Ramon Pacheco Pardo, East Asia, vol. 25, no. 1 2008. ”the breadth of the discussions and the importance of the issues that it covers ... make North Korea Policy an important library purchase.” Mark E. Caprio, Pacific Affairs vol. 81, no. 1, 2008. The book was also reviewed as part of a review article by Stuart Harris, Australian Journal of International Affairs, vol. 62, no. 2, 2008.)
